On the London Exchange.

LONDON, June 10.—American railway securities have been sold lately on the further fall in iron and steel, and the unfavorable Spring wheat prospects. Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul last week dropped four points, while other grangers fell from two to three points. Canadian Pacifics declined sympathetically.

OUR LONDON CABLE.

EASE IS ONLY SUPERFICIAL

Steady Cheapness Very Unlikely, While the Boom in Stocks, Which It Was Expected Would Follow the Taking of Pretoria, Has Not Materialized.

Cable Correspondence.
Copyright, 1900, THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 10.—Have you noticed a peculiarity common at present to both the English and German money markets? In both the official rates of discount are considerably above the open market rates, and neither State bank shows the least disposition to come down nearer to current figures. We have ceased to look for a 3 per cent. bank rate here, and the Reichsbank is quietly waiting until the German markets creep up to its height.

From these circumstances I infer that we are not going to have either pronounced or prolonged low charges for loanable capital here this Summer. At the same time our market is marvelously unruffled, and has met the last £3,000,000 installment on the war loan without flinching. When business was resumed on Tuesday after the Bank holiday, a shiver of uneasiness about rates went through the market lest Friday's "Khaki" payments should disturb credit and force borrowers to the Bank for help. "If you go," alarmists said, "to the Bank, it will charge you 4½ per cent." Nobody went, thanks to the free disbursements of the Treasury and to the judicious way in which the Bank is managing the collection of loan money. So money slipped back to 2 per cent. or less, and discount, from being almost 2⅞ per cent., is now held with difficulty above 2½ per cent.

Let this position continue, and the Bank may yet be driven down to 3 per cent., but I hardly expect ease to remain with us beyond this week—at least, not such ease as we now see. For one thing, a perfect surge of new demands for assistance from capital threatens the market, which is not really flush of means in spite of its superficial smoothness.

Long ago I mentioned that our municipalities have all been outruning the constable, and now we have proof of this fact. They are jostling each other in their eagerness to make the most of the brief sunshine. Already Plymouth, Nottingham, and Bristol have issued loans openly on the London market, and the week before last Liverpool sold locally £150,000 in 3 1-3 per cent. ten-year bonds at par. Glasgow likewise has been driven to issue accommodation bills for large amounts to keep its extravagant municipality going, and this week the London County Council will offer through the Bank of England a five-million-pound loan in 3 per cent. stock.

Add to these demands those of the railways, held back during the recent stringency, and all the shoals of new company ventures hanging over the market, and it will be obvious that steady cheapness is about the last thing our money market can reckon on.

Truth to tell, it is not quite a comfortable market, as its behavior since Pretoria was occupied proves. Prices for most classes of public securities have, after a brief flourish upward, dwindled badly, and this week's Stock Exchange settlement promises to be more difficult than the last. This does not apply to mine shares alone, but all around. I cannot tell you where the sources of weakness lie, but assuredly the market is weak and business poorer than at any time since the war began.

Disappointed operators, who looked forward to busy times and handsome profits easily made out of the gambling public once those Boers were downed, excuse their absence of foresight by laying all the blame on the "Boxers." This is mere spite. So little has the City thus far heeded the signs of the times, if there are any, in China that Chinese stocks have not been adversely influenced to the extent of 3 per cent., and on Friday they showed signs of recovering from the slight fall that did take place.

No. Our markets are sick because they are overloaded, and because the public has for the present lost its taste for gambling. Even Wall Street does not charm it, nor your harvest prospects, nor all that the cables daily tell us of the abounding elasticity of your industries. The least thing scares us, even the fall in German industrial shares, in which we have no direct interest. A. J. W.

No more general interest in the market for outside securities was shown last week than appeared during the several preceding weeks, and the record of transactions was as little interesting. The public still remains away from the market, and even traders are showing no disposition to risk much. The situation seems to be one of uncertainty, and the dullness resulting from this has led to many more or less serious declines. During the past week further losses were brought about in a number of stocks by liquidation. The market generally was in no position to absorb easily any large offerings of stocks, and though selling of this kind has of late not been very large, it has proved of sufficient volume to make the general tendency of the market a downward one. A few stocks were conspicuous for strength, and some succeeded in scoring net gains, but the number that declined was larger. Only on one or two days was any activity shown except in a few stocks that were influenced by special causes. In connection with the conversion of New Amsterdam Gas stocks those issues were fairly active throughout the week, but the totals in other stocks were much below that credited to New Amsterdam.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES.

Speculatively the position does not seem a very favorable one, and many observers of the outside market are predicting dullness throughout the Summer as marked as that of the past few weeks. Yet in reports of actual conditions affecting these stocks there is little reason for any apprehension. The fact seems to be that the market is weighed down by a large number of issues put out last year which have not yet been able to give proof of real value, and the situation is further impaired by the apprehension that many of them will never show much worth. Many issues, and among them some the prospects of which may conservatively be called good, are now selling at relatively very low prices, though last Spring they were deemed cheap at prices three or four times as high as those prevailing at present. It seems true that the higher prices are fictitiously advanced the lower they are likely to go when the return movement sets in. An illustration of this appears now in many outside stocks.

New Amsterdam Gas, the most active issue of the week, was the subject of considerable discussion, owing to the speculation that has been going on regarding the nature of the buying that has appeared in this stock for some time past. Trading in the stock developed no new features, however, and although the buying was still supposed to be in interest of the consolidation with the Consolidated Gas Company, no new evidence of the truth of this supposition was had. On most days of the week trading in the stock amounted to over a thousand shares, and on one or two days it amounted to about 3,000 shares, an amount much in excess of that credited to any other stock. Semi-official statements made during the week were to the effect that the merger of the company with the Consolidated Company was assured, this statement being made in denial of rumors to the effect that the merger was meeting with serious opposition. The trading in New Amsterdam stocks brought about practically no change in price, the common selling all week around 25 and the preferred around 50. There was, however, a sharp decline in the bonds, which declined to 103½, and closed at 103½ bid, a net loss of 1⅛ points.

Among the industrials the most conspicuous was Distilling of America. At times during the week this stock was quite active, but considerable weakness appeared, and at the close the preferred stock showed a net loss of 2 points, the final bid being 19. The lowest sale of the week was made at 18⅝, which was also the lowest price at which the stock had ever sold. On the last heavy decline the lowest price reached was 18¾. The common stock sold down to 5, and closed at 5¼ bid, showing a net loss of half a point. The Distilling stocks were unfavorably affected by the belief that it would be a long time before a complete statement of the company's condition could be had, as also by the probability that the bonds held in the treasury of the company would have to be issued to provide needed working capital. The losses in the stock were not materially reduced by announcements made late in the week to the effect that the company's foreign business was developing rapidly and proving profitable. Several other industrial stocks ended the week with substantial net losses, and only one or two closed at higher prices than those recorded the previous Saturday.

The copper stocks were for the most part very dull, and with the rest of the market showed net losses at the end of the week. Amalgamated Copper sold down to 87½, and though it recovered fractionally on Saturday showed at the close a net loss of 2¼ points. This group of stocks was unfavorably affected by the announcement of a further cut in the price of copper. The copper market is reported dull, consumers being said to be buying only enough metal for immediate requirements.

BERLIN BOERSE'S BAD WEEK.

Iron and Coal Shares Suffer Severely—Great Alarm Through Fear of American Competition.

BERLIN, June 10.—Last week was the worst the Boerse had known for twenty years. Many of the most substantial iron and coal shares fell more than 25 points. From Thursday conditions were very panicky, with phenomenal declines in both lines of securities. The banks forced many weak customers to sell their holdings, the public thus suffering great losses. The financial press refers to last week as "Black Week."

An impetus was given to the panic by reports from the United States of the overproduction of the iron market there, together with the shutting down of mills and reductions in prices.

The American situation is much commented upon here as foreshadowing an invasion of the German market. Hitherto German producers have stoutly denied that American iron is yet able to compete in Germany; but a case in point has occurred within a week, a first-class Westphalian firm having purchased 12,000 tons of American open hearth from a London firm. It also appears that American foundry iron has been offered in Berlin for 85 marks. In all this the financial press sees a danger of American competition already becoming realized. A number of manufacturers in Western Germany have formed an organization for combating American enterprise in iron and steel goods.

The Silesian iron market is reported decidedly weaker through the influence of the news from America, and the prospects of the formation of a rolling mill syndicate, to include all Germany, have improved from the same cause.

The cause of the scarcity in coal is still much discussed. At a meeting of a number of Chambers of Commerce held in Cologne, a committee was appointed to negotiate with the coal syndicate, and also with the coke syndicate, respecting measures of relief. The trade claims that the famine recently has grown more acute, imports remaining slight. Meanwhile the syndicate is said to be deliberating upon an advance in prices, and the Saxon coal companies have begun negotiations with the Bohemian companies for a coal combine.

Naturally, the decline of coal and iron shares spread to other securities, and other industrials lost rather heavily.

Bank shares fell off also. The money market showed no improvement, and private discount rose at the end of the week. Exchange rates, however, tend in Germany's favor. Purchases of German State funds have been made here upon London and Paris account.

German wheat prospects show improvement, although the rye crop will be less than the others.
